HERO (1803) 48 X 61 cm	Charles Miller Maritime Models 21 October 2009 Lot 283	Built at Blackwell by Perry, Wells & Green, Hero was completed in 1803 and joined the Channel Fleet under command of Alan Gardner, and fought at Calder's Action in July 1805 and Strahan's Action in November the same year. In 1809 she served at the Basque Roads and was in the Baltic in 1811 when she was wrecked on the Haak Sand off the Texel with the loss of over 500 in the Great Storm at Christmas Day 1811, leaving just 12 survivors
O 338	An early 19th century Napoleonic French prisoner of war model of the H.M.S. CIBELLE 28 X 36 cm	Charles Miller Maritime Models 21 October 2009 Lot 286	The intended name for this model would have been Sybille however in this instance the modeller used his own phonetic interpretation. The Sybille was a 5th rate taken as a prize in 1794 and absorbed into the Royal Navy where she remained until sold in 1833. As she was taken very early in the Wars with France, it is not surprising modellers would have chosen to use the name as a commercially successful one to sell their model and at least 2 others have been seen with the same name

PRINCE (1788) and which served in the lee column at Trafalgar 43 X 56 cm	Charles Miller Maritime Models 21 October 2009 Lot 297	Built at Woolwich and completed in 1787, Prince was the first ship to be lengthened by cutting in half and inserting a 17 foot section, to the vast improvement of her sailing abilities in 1796. At Trafalgar she engaged the Spanish Principe de Asturias (112) and the French Achille who caught fire and after Prince severed her mast and she became dangerous, the boats of Prince at great risk, saved many of the French crew. Despite all this, she was the only British ship in the action to suffer no injuries or casualties to any of her crew or officers
O 370	A finely detailed french prisoner of war style wood, bone and baleen model of the 3rd rate ship of the line H.M.S. AGAMEMNON 61 x 76cm.	Charles Miller Maritime Models 28 April 2010 Lot 243	The H.M.S. Agamemnon saw service in the American Revolutionary, French Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars, and fought in many of the major naval battles of those conflicts. She is remembered as being Nelson's favourite ship. The future Lord Nelson served as Agamemnon's captain from January 1793 for 3 years and 3 months, during which time she saw considerable service in the Mediterranean. She fought at the Battle of Trafalgar, as part of Nelson's weather column, where she forced the surrender of the Spanish four-decker Santvsima Trinidad. In June 1809 she grounded on an uncharted shoal in the mouth of the River Plate, whilst seeking shelter with the rest of her squadron from a storm.

O 376	A highly detailed, planked and framed 1/4 :1 Scale model of the 74 four gun ship H.M.S. Initially assigned to the Channel Fleet, Mars went to serve in the Lee Column at Trafalgar where her captain (George Duff) was killed with 28 others in the action. Thereafter, after a spell in the Baltic, Mars was laid up in 1812, fitted as receiving ship at Portsmouth and broken up there in 1823.

O 462	A finely planked and pinned scale model of H.M.S. BELLE POULE (1765)	Charles Miller Maritime Sale 25 April 2012 Lot 241	modelled in fruitwood with ebony keel, cannons run out, finely-carved rampant lion figurehead, stern and glazed quarter galleries, anchors with bound stocks, chain plates with deadeyes, bits, cleats, capstan, belfry, well deck with suite of open craft, companionways, double helm, bound cut-away masts and other details, mounted on turned-brass columns within brass-bound glazed display case. Overall measurements -- 24 x 49½ x 16½in. (61 x 126 x 42cm.) Built as La Belle Poule in Bordeaux, she was a 36-gun frigate of just over 900 tons and crewed by 254 men. When hostilities broke out with England, La Belle Poule fought a long and furious duel with the Arethusa. When Arethusa's main mast fell she was forced to withdraw, however the action was so famous, for a brief period ladies of the French Court wore a ship in their hair in the so-called 'Belle Poule Style'. It was not to last, however, and she was captured by the Nonsuch on 14th July 1781. Re-fitted at Portsmouth and absorbed into the Royal Navy as Belle Poule where she remained for twenty years until broken at Sheerness in 1801.
